Market Conditions

It might come as a surprise, but one of the biggest causes for a security breach isn't by security bugs or malfunctions: it is, in fact, human error. According to a study by CompTIA, human error accounts for 52 percent of the root causes of security breaches which are the result of a variety of scenarios including weak passwords, sending sensitive data to the wrong recipients, sharing password or account information and falling for phishing scams.

Part of an effective cyber security defence system is being able to understand the cyber threats your organisation faces in the first place. The best way to avoid a cyber attack is to equip yourself and your company's workforce with the necessary knowledge and skills to improve overall cyber security awareness and hygiene. CSA's e-Learning is an ideal way for remote workforces to add cyber security knowledge to their toolbox and ensure they and your business are armed against cyber attack

Discover our e-Learning

Our interactive e-Learning courses are ideal for large companies that do not have the time to conduct face-to-face cyber security training sessions, or whilst employees are working remotely. The courses allow your team to deepen their understanding at a time and pace that suits them. CSA recommends our webinar training sessions that are designed for immersive and personal training.

CSA's individual e-Learning courses are delivered through an interactive web-based portal to deliver courses covering a range of cyber security topics, including defence against phishing attacks, password management as well as other organisational issues such as GDPR. The portal can be configured to deliver training on almost any subject with course lengths ranging from 30-45 mins or as little as 5-10 mins for a shortened version.
